

“BOY...WAS I SURPRISED..!”

These are the words of Ed Donchin, a Barnegat resident who was very skeptical at the onset of his treatments on the DRX 9000 Spinal Decompression machine. Donchin has suffered for years with low back pain from herniated discs, spinal stenosis and arthritis with bone spurs. He has tried pain management including epidural injections, physical therapy and medication. Donchin admitted he didn't expect much relief when he started treatment. “Boy...was I surprised!” He now tells everyone with a back problem about the amazing results that he has experienced on the DRX 9000.

Dr. Kenneth Zammito, senior doctor at the Jersey Shore Low Back Center admits that this state-of-the-art high tech medical equipment is an amazing breakthrough that “is clinically proving itself daily and is starting to be recognized even in the medical community as a revolutionary new way to treat chronic low back conditions.”

Jersey Shore Low Back Center was the first clinic in Ocean County to acquire a DRX 9000 Spinal Decompression machine in 2003. A second machine was then added in 2005. The DRX 9000 was developed by scientists, doctors and engineers and marketed by Axiom Worldwide, a Tampa-based company that focuses on new medical technology. The machine relieves pain associated with herniated, bulging or protruded discs, degenerative disc disease, posterior facet syndrome, spinal stenosis and sciatica. It achieves these effects through decompression of the intervertebral discs and posterior joints, that is, unloading due to distraction and specific positioning. “It basically allows the reverse flow of nutrients and fluid back into the disc and increases the size of the joint and nerve opening thus restoring structure and function,” Zammito added. “We've seen some pretty amazing things over the last 5 years, but the thing that amazes me most is the long term results of the treatments. Our first 2 patients that we treated in 2003 are still virtually pain free to this day.”

Donchin isn't concerned with the technical lingo as he is with the relief.

Dr. Kenneth Zammito heads the Jersey Shore Low Back Center in Forked River. The phone number is (609)693-2020 for any back pain issues and pain evaluation to see if you may be a candidate for the DRX 9000. A free special report has also been made available detailing everything you need to know about non-surgical decompression (a 24 hour recorded message) by calling (800)659-3282 or visit the website at: www.jshoredrx.com
